The Honorable Kenneth Rush
Council of American Ambassadors
1150 Seventeenth Street, NW
Suite 600
Washington, DC 20036

Dear Mr. Ambassador:

Mr. Casey has asked me to confirm that the Central Intelligence Agency will host the Council of American Ambassadors at our Headquarters Building in Langley, Virginia on Thursday, 3 April from 9:30 a.m. - 12:00 p.m.

If his schedule permits, the Director hopes to be available to give the opening remarks of the meeting. Senior CIA officers will brief members of your Council for the remaining time. As you know, the briefings will be unclassified.

A member of my staff will soon be in touch with your Executive Director, Mr. William L. Sharpless, in order to make the necessary arrangements.

We are looking forward to the Council's visit.

Sincerely,

George V. Lauder
Director, Public Affairs

MEMORANDUM FOR: Director of Central Intelligence

FROM: George V. Lauder
Director, Public Affairs Office

SUBJECT: Invitation to Address the Council of American Ambassadors

1. Action Requested: Accept or decline an invitation from the Council of American Ambassadors either to address them at their spring luncheon meeting in Washington or to organize a program at Headquarters where you and other senior Agency Officers would brief their group.

2. Possible Agenda: Co-Chairman of the Council of American Ambassadors Kenneth Rush requested that you have the group at the Agency for their Spring meeting. Briefings from you and your Directors were proposed. Executive Director of the Council William Sharpless suggested as a proposed agenda a morning of briefings at the Agency followed by meetings on Capitol Hill with the Intelligence Oversight Committees. We would be responsible for the morning session. If this is not possible, you are invited to address the group at a luncheon at State Department.

*Luncheon Address at State:

If you opt for a luncheon to be held at State Department, the suggested format is 20 minutes of off-the-record remarks followed by 20 minutes of Questions and Answers. You could expect an audience of between 50 - 100 former ambassadors, many of whom are on boards of directors of Fortune 500 Companies and publishing houses. Neither the press nor foreign nationals would be present.

*Meeting with the Members at Headquarters:

If you opt for a program at Headquarters, Ambassador Rush suggested that you and your chief directors brief the Council for a morning session. A suggested program is for you to give the welcoming remarks followed by John McMahon and then Bob Gates on the "Challenges of Intelligence Today." When the Council was briefed in November at the Pentagon, the attendees felt that the talks were too low level and substantive information was not provided. Briefing them at the Agency would involve obtaining clearances on each individual in order to provide them with the level of classified information that they would expect in the Headquarters environs--a considerable chore for the Office of Security.

STAT 1

P-306

SUBJECT: Invitation to Address the Council of American Ambassadors

STAT 3. Possible Dates: The Council plans to have its Spring meeting sometime between March 27 - April 3. If you accept this invitation my staff will work out a convenient date with

4. Background: The Council of American Ambassadors, founded in 1983, has as its goals: to advance public understanding of diplomacy; to make available to the government the knowledge, experience, and perspectives gained by its members during their respective ambassadorial services; to provide a forum for exchange of views between career and non-career diplomats; and generally to support the foreign policy objectives of the United States. Those eligible for membership are Ambassadors of the U.S. appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate who are not career Foreign Service Officers. (See membership list opposite.)

The Council, as one of its most important activities, has been hosted by the State Department, U.S. Mission to the United Nations, and the Defense Department. Secretary Shultz, Ambassador Kirkpatrick, and Secretary Weinberger along with their senior assistants have provided briefings at these sessions. Other speakers have included Henry Kissinger, Zbigniew Brzezinski, Paul Warnke and Senators Percy, Pell, Lugar, Levin and Rudman. Vice President Bush also spoke at their last meeting and hosted a reception for the Council at his residence. (See agendas opposite.)

STAT 5. Recommendation: As Ambassadors, members of this group have worked with many of us in the field. Many of them hold influential positions on boards of leading corporations and elsewhere. However, giving them a classified briefing at Headquarters which would involve clearances and significant commitment of your and the deputy directors' time would seem to be overkill. Alternatively, it would, I believe, be useful for you or John McMahon to address the Council at its luncheon meeting. I defer to you which of these alternatives you prefer.

Dear Bill;

The Council, as one of its most important activities, has been hosted by the State Department, U.S. Mission to the United Nations and the Defense Department. Secretary Shultz, Ambassador Kirkpatrick and Secretary Weinberger along with their senior assistants have provided briefings at these sessions. Other speakers have included Henry Kissinger, Zbigniew Brzezinski, Paul Warnke and Senators Percy, Pell, Lugar, Levin and Rudman. Vice President Bush also spoke at our last meeting and hosted a reception for us at his residence. I am enclosing full programs for these sessions.

During the last meeting, much interest was evinced by the Ambassadors in having briefings at the Spring meeting at the Central Intelligence Agency by you and your top directors. We have some of the most distinguished public figures in America and they are keenly interested in substance. Thus, the hope is to secure as much inside information as can possibly be given us.

The Council of American Ambassadors, founded in 1983, has as its goals: to advance public understanding of diplomacy, to make available to the government the knowledge, experience, and perspectives gained by its members during their respective ambassadorial services, to provide a forum for exchange of views between career and non-career diplomats, and generally to support the foreign policy objectives of the United States. Those individuals appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate as Ambassadors of the United States, who are not career Foreign Service Officers are eligible for membership. I am also enclosing a list of our members.

I personally would much appreciate and also on behalf of the Council would hope that you would be able to designate someone on your staff to help us organize a program at the CIA.

Sincerely,

Kenneth Rush

You'll find it hard to believe, but I fractured my fibula playing golf in Vermont this September and haven't played since. The cast is now off and I hope to be back on the course soon!

I hope that you'll look with favor on this request, Bill. I'm anxious for our members to know more about the C & H and to greet you as you're doing.

All the best!
